

Talking Two Year Olds: A Holistic Approach

Julie Kent

Further reading & References

Kent, J and Moran, M. (eds). 2019. Communication for the early years: a holistic approach. Oxon: Routledge.

Kent, J and McDonald, S. 2019. Experiences of the implementation of an early years communication improvement model: Speech and Language Therapist and Early Years practitioner perspectives and implications for practice. Early Education Journal (87):13-15.

Kent, J. Embracing levels of involvement. (Chapter 6) in Wood, A. (ed). 2016. Examining levels of involvement: Engaging with children's possibilities. London: Routledge.

Kent, J, Farley, C and Hobson, S. 2019. On reflection: how settings can improve how they support the Communication and Language skills of children as seen through the lens of the new Ofsted judgement 'quality of education'. Nursery World: September issue p27-29.

Beuker, K et al. 2013. Development of early communication skills in the first two years of life. Infant behavior & development. Vol:36 iss:1 pg:71 –83

Brebner, C. et al. 2016. Early childhood educators' understanding of early communication: Application to their work with young children. Child Language Teaching and Therapy. Vol:32 iss:3 pg:277 -292

Cameron, C and Moss, P. (eds). 2011. Social pedagogy and working with children and young people. London: Jessica Kingsley.

Forman, G and Hall, E. 2013. Wondering With Children: The Importance of Observation in Early Education. Learning landscapes. Vol:7 iss:1 pg:187 -202

Gray, C and MacBlain, S. 2015. Learning theories in childhood. London: Sage.

Kent, J and Moran, M. (eds). 2019. Communication for the early years: a holistic approach. Oxon: Routledge.

Murray, A and Egan, S. 2014. Does reading to infants benefit their cognitive development at 9-months-old? An investigation using a large birth cohort survey. Child Language Teaching and Therapy. Vol.30(3), pp.303-315